

From: David Clark
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/30/01 12:27pm
Subject: DOJ/Microsoft Antitrust Settlement

Gentlemen:

I believe the antitrust settlement negotiated between the DOJ and Microsoft Corp. is useless. There are too many ways for Microsoft to interpret the agreement to their advantage and continue business as usual. Microsoft will still be able to unfairly dominate their competitors. Microsoft is still able to force users to accept software and licensing terms whose main design and purpose is to maintain monopolistic control.

For all the work that has been done in the past three years I expected better results. DOJ has rolled over and Microsoft has won after being found to be a Monopolist.